

Vuzix Chief Operating Officer to Keynote at the 5th Annual Smart Manufacturing Summit

ROCHESTER, NY, May 15, 2017 – Vuzix® Corporation (NASDAQ: VUZI), ("Vuzix" or, the "Company"), a leading supplier of Smart Glasses, Augmented Reality (AR) and Virtual Reality (VR) technologies and products for the consumer and enterprise markets, is pleased to announce that Paul Boris, the company's recently appointed Chief Operating Officer will be the lead-off keynote speaker at the 5th Annual Smart Manufacturing Summit in Seattle, Washington on Tuesday May 16, 2017 at 8:30am Pacific Time.

Mr. Boris will provide an overview of Manufacturing's next Golden Age – one of data-driven agility. He will discuss how concepts like machine learning and the Industrial Internet collide, fueled by advances in machines, material and personal technologies such as smart glasses, as well as how these might impact an evolving workforce. Boris's vision and insights are the backdrop and introduction to the co-host of the event, Dennis Muilenburg, CEO of The Boeing Company.

Attendees of the summit will have an opportunity to tour Boeing's Everett factory, the world's largest factory by volume with more than 30,000 employees. The summit will go over technical skill gap, supply chain issues, talent management and reshoring challenges faced by manufacturing operations.

"Smart glasses are a critical part of every advanced manufacturing solution stack, in combination with an array of automation and effectiveness tools. They play a vital role in this next golden age for manufacturing, which is already underway at facilities run by Boeing and many others," said Paul Boris, Chief Operating Officer of Vuzix. "The manufacturing industry is ripe for disruption, and the use of wearable technology will play a vital role in the day-to-day success of nearly every operator and engineer on the plant floor or in the field."

Event: 5th Annual Smart Manufacturing Summit

Location: Seattle, Washington
