

Vuzix Blade Smart Glasses Now Support Popular Peer-to-Peer Video Calling Apps

- Facebook Messenger Lite, WhatsApp and IMO are among those now supported
- Blade's forward-facing camera easily enables 'see what I see' handsfree functionality for users

ROCHESTER, NY, July 12, 2019 - Vuzix® Corporation (NASDAQ: VUZI), ("Vuzix" or, the "Company"), a leading supplier of Smart Glasses and Augmented Reality (AR) technology and products, today announced the support of a series of peer-to-peer video calling apps on the Vuzix Blade Smart Glasses including Facebook Messenger Lite, WhatsApp and IMO.

"The enablement of hands-free peer-to-peer video calling to connect families, friends and businesses is a powerful application for consumers and businesses alike. These peer-to-peer video calling apps utilize the built-in camera and microphone on the Vuzix Blade Smart Glasses to live-stream video and audio out, while the Blade user sees the feed from the user's camera on the other end, whether it's coming from a phone, tablet, PC or Blade," said Paul Travers, President and Chief Executive Officer at Vuzix. "These video calling applications on the Vuzix Blade create new opportunities to connect families, friends and businesses, ranging from virtually attending family functions and live performances to performing repairs at home or the office; all delivered hands-free."
