

Vuzix Enters Into Strategic Partnership with MPC Energy to Deliver M300 Smart Glasses and Next-Generation Energy Management Tools to Industrial Customers

ROCHESTER, NY, September 21, 2017 – Vuzix® Corporation (NASDAQ: VUZI), ("Vuzix" or, the "Company"), a leading supplier of Smart Glasses and Augmented Reality (AR) technologies and products for the consumer and enterprise markets, announced today a strategic partnership with Modular Process Control, LLC "MPC Energy" to collaborate on the delivery of Vuzix industrial smart glasses and MPC Energy's Aura application to provide next-generation tools for the management of energy, resource consumption and conservation to industrial customers.

Vuzix' AR smart glasses will enable the delivery of real-time insights from MPC Energy to operators on the consumption of their energy for systems, machines and devices. The delivery of real-time insights to the machines via Vuzix smart glasses and Aura, MPC's smart manufacturing energy management system, will ultimately allow operators to adjust machines and processes in a way that optimizes production and resource consumption in concert with the organization's goals.

MPC Energy has been optimizing energy consumption for aluminum, gasoline, food, chemical, glass, electronics and textile manufacturers. From potato chips to microchips, refineries to foundries; MPC Energy has been shrinking the energy footprints of its global customers and reducing the amount of energy required to produce the products they consume.

Vuzix will be attending the World Engineering Energy Conference (WEEC) with MPC Energy on September 27-29 in Atlanta, Georgia at Booth #222 to showcase the Vuzix M300 and Aura, MPC's smart manufacturing energy management system.

"The team at MPC Energy has established a legacy over the last 37 years in operational excellence and driving productivity and cost savings in over 100 manufacturing plants for its industrial customers, said Matt Ratteree, President of MPC Energy. "We're excited to partner with Vuzix to bring the value proposition of predictive maintenance to our end customers through the use of Vuzix AR Smart Glasses and MPC Aura".

"MPC Energy's next generation management tools paired up with Vuzix M300 smart glasses will drive new business opportunities for Vuzix with some world class customers in the industrial space," said Paul Travers, President and CEO of Vuzix.
